Great Plains Bank Offers Support to Customers Affected by Ongoing Government Shutdown

As of today, the U.S. government has been in shutdown for 14 days, leaving many federal employees and military service members facing uncertainty about their pay and finances. Great Plains Bank (GPB) recognizes the strain this can place on families and is stepping up to support those affected.

"We're more than a bank, we're a community," said Robert Garton, Division President. "When our customers face unexpected challenges like this, we want them to know we're here to help."

GPB is offering financial assistance options to eligible customers impacted by the shutdown. These relief programs are designed to provide short-term flexibility and stability during this difficult period.

Eligibility for Assistance

- Must be an existing GPB customer who is a federal government employee or military service member.
- Must have regular direct deposits from the federal government that have been disrupted by the shutdown.

Customers who believe they may qualify are encouraged to contact their local branch or reach out directly to Great Plains Bank to discuss available options.
